

Investment Adviser

We currently have vacancies for two Investment Advisers in our Singapore office.

Applicants must have a minimum of 3 years regulated experience and must hold or be determined to pass all necessary qualifications required to advise in Singapore.

Your main role as an Investment Adviser will be to source your own leads and provide appropriate advice and recommendations. You will also monitor and service your client bank, providing regular monitoring and reviews of their needs and goals.

Working at Meyado Singapore is a rewarding experience. As an Investment Adviser of Meyado you will be exposed to an environment which will enable you to develop your clients' wealth as well as having an infrastructure which will enable you to build your client base.

Meyado provides an extremely competitive, rewards based package, full office and administration support, regular ongoing training and further career opportunities. Meyado advisers generally earn above industry average incomes due to the level of support and training they receive. A typical first year income is in excess of $150,000 although many earn over $300,000.

Applicants should provide a cover letter detailing why they are interested in this particular position, a detailed CV highlighting relevant qualifications and experiences making them suitable for the position, and a current business photograph.
